I go places and make things in response. I am attracted to interactions between people and land. I worry about the things that make us modern, but participate in some anyways, just to see how it feels. I will shamelessly be distracted by the sunset and the moon as every day transitions to each night. I think tools, lamps, bottles, ampersands, citrus, pathways, and the spaces between things are beautiful. I feel better when I'm moving.

Born in 1985, in San Francisco, raised in Petaluma, and currently residing in Oakland, CA.
